First Generation

1. WOODBURN was born (date unknown). The name Woodburn is apparently of Scottish origin. It may come from the Scottish term for a small stream--"burn"; hence, wooded burn or tree-lined stream. Woodburn, then, would have been the name given to people living in such an area. The main connection appears to be with the Ayrshire and Dumfries areas of Scotland. There, a George Woodburn was shot for being a Covenanter (Scottish Presbyterians in the 17th cen. who subscribed to various conservative covenants) in 1685. It was not unusual, however, for people from Scotland, in times of religious persecution, to flee to Ireland and England. Thus, for example, there are a number of Woodburns in Pennington Hall, Ulverston, Cumbria Co., England. There, a Robert Woodburne, in 1654, served as the attorney for George Fox, founder of the Quakers, in acquiring land for the first Quaker cemetery. In Ireland, Carrickfergus Co. in Northern Ireland has an area and a police station bearing the Woodburn name. Despite these connections to England and Ireland, the original Scottish connection seems indisputable.

A Woodburn family lived in Ballintemple, N. Ireland before the siege of Londonderry in 1689 and it is this family with which we are concerned here. Ballintemple is located in County Derry, two miles southwest of Garvagh. The townland occupies 759 acres in the parish of Errigal, Barony of Coleraine.

How the Woodburns came to N. Ireland is a matter of speculation. In the early 1600's, British King James I, who was protestant, attempted once and for all to subjugate the recalcitrant Ulster Catholics. He colonized the area with English and Scottish loyalists (perhaps including the Woodburns?), who were largely Protestant, resulting in the Protestant majority that exists today in N. Ireland. These so-called Plantations of Ulster included the rebuilding of the city of Derry. The city was renamed Londonderry. In the 1630's, the city had only 2000 inhabitants, but it was the largest city in Ulster.

The Siege of Derry began on April 18, 1689, when deposed British King James II, who was Catholic, and French and Irish forces loyal to him, attempted to secure a base in Ireland from which he could attempt to regain the British throne. The Protestants in Ulster supported King George and Queen Mary and they barricaded themselves in the city and refused to surrender. The siege lasted 105 days and was broken when a relief ship made its way to the city, but the siege left a mark on the city that survives to this day.

The majority of the Scots plantation settlers were from Galloway and Ayrshire in west Scotland. That is probably where the Woodburns of N. Ireland would have come from. The area around Garvagh is predominately Presbyterian and with strong ties still to Scottish culture.

WOODBURN had the following children:

- +2 i. William WOODBURN, born about 1730.
- 3 ii. Of Gortfad WOODBURN was born (date unknown). All information regarding this person was obtained from David Woodburn (CIS: 100554,526) and needs to be confirmed.
- 4 iii. Of Liscall WOODBURN was born (date unknown). All information regarding this person was obtained from David Woodburn (CIS: 100554,526) and needs to be confirmed.

Second Generation

2. William WOODBURN was born about 1730. William lived in the townland of Ballintemple, parish of Errigal, Co. Londonderry, N. Ireland.

Some information regarding William and his descendants was obtained in 2012 from the website of Christopher Earls Brennen at <http://www.dankat.com/badger/chap9.htm>. While he does not cite sources (and, indeed, some information may have come from my website or Janet Rhein's website), he does provide additional information and it appears to be more than speculative--i.e., it appears to have a source. This source will not be repeated.

The identities of William's children is speculative, but is confirmed by Mr. Brennen's website. All of this information needs to be confirmed.

Mary UNKNOWN was born (date unknown).

William WOODBURN and Mary UNKNOWN had the following children:

- 5     i. William WOODBURN was born (date unknown).
- 6     ii. Alexander WOODBURN was born in 1747. He died in 1791 at the age of 44. He was buried in Ballintemple Graveyard, Ballintemple, County Londonderry, N. Ireland. Alexander left Ballintemple, N. Ireland and bought a farm in County Antrim, near Macfin, N. Ireland. He died there but is buried in Ballintemple Graveyard in Ballintemple, N. Ireland. All of his children apparently immigrated to America.

Christopher Earls Brennen's website shows Alexendar's date of death as 1771.

Some information regarding this person was obtained from David Woodburn (CIS: 100554,526) and needs to be confirmed.

- +7    iii. James WOODBURN, born November 12, 1748, Edenburne, Parish of Desastoughel, County Londonderry, N.I.; married Sarah MCGILL, November 16, 1775; died August 21, 1812.
- +8    iv. Matthew WOODBURN, born 1755, Ireland; married Isabella GILMOUR, 1783, Co. Londonderry, N. Ireland; died 1830, Co. Londonderry, N. Ireland.

Third Generation

7. James WOODBURN was born on November 12, 1748 in Edenburne, Parish of Desastoughel, County Londonderry, N.I. He died on August 21, 1812 at the age of 63. He was buried in Hopewell Cem. or Covenanter Cem (Brick Ch.), Chester, SC. James is said to be the brother of William and Alexander by David Woodburn (CIS: 100554,526). This needs to be confirmed. This is the operating assumption that will be used here.

According to Woodburn History; Some Generations of a Family, by James Albert Woodburn (1936), a James Woodburn was born on November 12, 1748 in Edenburne, parish of Desastoughel, County Londonderry (the cited source for this data is "an old document" written by James (b. 1748)). The same 1936 source states that James had a brother Alexander. Thus, the dates and names provided by David Woodburn, above, appear to match, and for purposes of this record, it will be assumed that James (b. 1748) is the brother of William and Alexander.

All information regarding James (b. 1748) and his descendants is derived from Woodburn History; Some Generations of a Family, by James Albert Woodburn (1936). This source will not be cited further.

Again, the following is taken from "an old document" written in Aug. 1795 by James (b. 1748):

James immigrated to America in 1767, leaving Ireland on July 2, 1767 and arriving in Newcastle, Delaware on September 7, 1767.

After initially living in Pennsylvania, he and his family left Pennsylvania on October 15, 1777 and arrived in North Carolina on November 4, 1777. They left North Carolina on November 12, 1782 and arrived at Kingstree, South Carolina on December 12, 1782. They left South Carolina in April 1783 and arrived near Ogeechee, Georgia on May 5, 1783. They returned to South Carolina (Edisto) on March 15, 1789, after which they went to Orangeburg County, South Carolina.

On April 14, 1791 they left South Carolina and arrived in Summerseat, Georgia on April 22, 1791; they moved to Louisville, Georgia on July 7, 1791; they then returned to Summerseat on March 21, 1792.

His brother, Alexander, visited from Ireland from September 27, 1782 to November 15, 1782. James visited Ireland in January 1798 and returned to Georgia in 1798.

On April 4, 1800, James and his family left Georgia and settled in Rocky Creek, Chester County, South Carolina.

James WOODBURN and Sarah MCGILL were married on November 16, 1775. Sarah MCGILL was born in November, 1746 in County Down, Ireland. She died on July 31, 1815 at the age of 68. Sarah was widowed from William McMurray, by whom she had at least five children.

James WOODBURN and Sarah MCGILL had the following children:

- +9 i. Elizabeth WOODBURN, born May 4, 1777, Pennsylvania; married Thomas CRAIG, September 29, 1801, Jacob's Branch, SC.
- +10 ii. Margaret WOODBURN, born September 17, 1779, North Carolina; married Matthew JOHNSTON, October 24, 1808.
- 11 iii. Dorrance WOODBURN was born in January, 1782. He died on May 26, 1784 at the age of 2 in Ogeechee, GA.
- 12 iv. Jean WOODBURN was born on June 4, 1784 in Georgia. She died in March, 1789 at the age of 4 in Edisto, Aiken Co., South Carolina.
- +13 v. Dorrance Beatty WOODBURN, born August 16, 1786, Summerseat (near Louisville), Georgia; married Rachel JOHNSTON, December 3, 1807, Chester District, SC.

8. Matthew WOODBURN was born in 1755 in Ireland. He died in 1830 at the age of 75 in Co. Londonderry, N. Ireland. He was buried in Ballintemple Graveyard, Ballintemple, Co. Londonderry, N. Ireland. Matthew acquired Ballintemple Farm in Ballintemple, N. Ireland with his wife Isabella, who had grown up there. He attended the Synod of Ulster in 1802. He is buried in Ballintemple Graveyard. This information was obtained from David Woodburn (CIS: 100554,526) and needs to be confirmed.

According to the 1796 Visitation Records of the First Garvagh Presbyterian Church, a Matthew Woodburn and his family were living in Ballintemple in 1796. The names in the record are: Matth Woodburn, Isabella Woodburn, Willm Woodburn, John Woodburn, Mary Woodburn, Robert Woodburn, Matth Woodburn Junr.

(See <http://www.4qd.org/bann/Visits/1796.html> (12/31/02), data transcribed and checked by Richard J. Torrens)
This appears to be the family with which we are concerned here inasmuch as the family listing is complete except for James and George, who were born after 1796.

According to the 1818 Visitation Records of the First Garvagh Presbyterian Church, a Matthew Woodburn and his family were living in Gortfadd in 1818. The names in the record are: Mathew Woodburn, Isabella Woodburn, his wife, Jno Woodburn, Robt Woodburn, Math Woodburn, Jas Woodburn and Geo Woodburn. Mary was married by 1818 and no longer in the house. A William Woodburn is also shown on the list as living in a separate household in Gortfadd.

According to the 1825 Visitation Records of the First Garvagh Presbyterian Church, a Matthew Woodburn and his family were living in Ballintemple in 1825. The names in the record are: Mathew Woodburn, Isabella Woodburn, James Woodburn, George Woodburn and John Woodburn Junr.

The following was posted on the Londonderry Genforum by Blanchard Smith on May 11, 2002. The signatories include Matthew Woodburn, who is likely to be this Matthew:

1795 CALL TO JAMES BROWN, DD, TO GARVAGH

We the Protestant Desenters of ye Congregation of Garvagh, rendered destitute of a belated Pastor through the awfull dispensation of the most High, but piously resolved "not to forsake the assembling of ourselves together" and devoutly wishing the residence of a faithful Minister of Religion amongst us, to preach the glorious Gospel of ye blessed God, and administer the sacred Institutions thereof -

And whereas through a kind Providence, we have had repeated opportunities of sitting with rational delight and religious satisfaction, under the ministry of the word by you the Revd. Mr. Brown, being amply satisfied as to the Purity of your Morals, and Improvement of your Talents, and perfectly convinced of the Truth and Integrity of your Principles - (as Presbyterians glorying in it as our inalienable right, and exercising it as unquestionable priviledge to choose our own ministers)

Do hereby solemnly invite you and call you, the aforesaid Mr. Brown, to assist and influence, direct and govern, this religious community in the publick Worship of God, and to administer such means of Grace and Salvation, as the great Chm. of your holy religion hath appointed in his word "for the perfecting of the Saints, for the Works of the Ministry, for edifying of the Body of Christ",

Solemnly pledging ourselves that in the faithfull discharge of your duty, we will know you with reverential regard, respect your person - love you in the Lord - and esteem you very highly for your work's sake, and in time, shall yield unto you a suitable and comfortable maintenance - convinced that the Labourer is worthy of his Hire - that he who serves at the altar must live by the altar, that Elders who rule well especially in word and doctrine are counted worthy of double Honour, and that whomsoever shall give but a cup of water in the name of Christ to his disciples shall not look for reward -

In testimony of which we have hereunto annexed our signatures dated at Garvagh this 7th day of June 1795.

Information regarding this person was obtained from David Woodburn (CIS: 100554,526). According to Christopher Earls Brennen, John and Marry had only one child--John.

Mary WITHEROW was born (date unknown).

John WOODBURN and Mary WITHEROW had the following children:

- 30 i. Isabella WOODBURN was born about 1837. Isabella apparently went to America. According to David Woodburn (CIS: 100554,526).

The William-Rathbone, ship manifest #4473, arriving Port of New York, May 14, 1850 from Liverpool lists and Isabella Woodburn, servant, age 17, traveling with Hugh Boyce, age 48 and Mary, age as 35. The children are Hugh, age 14; Matthew, age 8; James, age 7; Mary, age 5; and Mary Elizabeth, age 4. There are no other Woodburn's listed on the ship's manifest. She may have accompanied the Boyce's and helped with the children. There is, however, no record of her in the 1850 Census for the City of Pittsburgh. She is probably the daughter of John Woodburn, born May 2, 1788, married to Mary Witherow.

- +31 ii. Ann WOODBURN.
- 32 iii. Matthew WOODBURN was born (date unknown). Matthew apparently went to America. All information regarding this person was obtained from David Woodburn (CIS: 100554,526) and needs to be confirmed.

All information regarding this person was obtained from David Woodburn (CIS: 100554,526) and needs to be confirmed.

Mary WOODBURN and John WILSON were married on March 12, 1810 in First Garvagh Pres. Ch., Garvagh, Co. Londonderry, N. Ireland. According to Janet Houston Rhein, the witnesses to the marriage were Matthew Woodburn and A. Smyth. John WILSON, son of James WILSON, was born in 1778 in Ballyagan, County Londonderry, Northern Ireland. He died on August 6, 1851 at the age of 73 in Ballyagan, County Londonderry, Ireland. He was buried in August, 1851 in Desertoghil Parish Burying Ground, Parish of Desertoghil, Barony of Coleraine, County Londonderry,. According to David Woodburn (CIS: 100554,526), John was married to Mary Woodburn and they lived in Ballyagan, Garvagh, N. Ireland. According to Janet Houston Rhein, 3010 Dick Wilson Drive, Sarasota, FL 34240; email: janrhein@worldnet.att.net, John and Mary were the parents of at least three sons (Willaim, James and John) and six daughters (Isabella (who married John Huston), Jane, Martha (who married Hugh Young), Nancy and "E" (who emigrated to America in 1852) and

"B"(who in 1852 lived with a family named Laughlin)). If this is correct, then the daughter of Martha Wilson and Hugh Young--Martha Young--married Mary Woodburn's grandnephew, Robert Riley Woodburn, meaning that Robert Riley Woodburn married his second cousin.

Janet Houston Rhein concludes that Isabella, Martha and Nancy Wilson are the children of Mary Woodburn, born January 11, 1791, married to John Wilson and the brothers of James, Matthew, John and William based on correspondence in her possession and work done by a professional genealogist in Ireland. The genealogist stated "I found that William Huston married Hanna Woodburn in 1809 and John Wilson married Mary Woodburn in 1810. Although there are no addresses I am certain that these are your ancestors". The 1831 census for County Londonderry gives only the name of the head of the household and the number of males and females in the family. The genealogist goes on to say "John Wilson of Ballyagan had possible 4 sons and 9 daughter". Confirmation of this fact is being sought.

According to information supplied to Janet Houston Rhein by Linda Gilmore, the following tombstone inscription is found at the Desertoghill Parish Burying Ground: "Sacred to the memory of John Wilson late of Ballyagan who died on the 6th August 1851 aged 73? years. His wife Mary died on the 2nd April 1865 aged 74 years. And his daughter-in-law Nancy on the 14th Feb. 1854 aged 33 years. Also his son William who died 10th March 1875 aged 62 years. Also his daughter-in-law Jane who died 3rd? March 1892 aged 65 years. Also his daughter Margt Ann died 27th August 1893 aged 68 years."

The 1831 Census for County Londonderry lists a John Wilson of Ballyagan with five males and 10 females, a total of 15 individuals. This database accounts for all five males and nine out of the 10 females.

John WILSON and Mary WOODBURN had the following children:

She was baptized on June 30, 1800 in First Garvagh Presbyterian Church, Garvagh, Derry, Northern Ireland. This information was obtained from David Woodburn (CIS: 100554,526). It appears to be confirmed by a marriage record obtained by The Genealogy Centre, Derry, NI, from 1st Garvagh Presbyterian Church, which records the marriage of Matthew Woodburn and Isabella Dripps on March 2, 1823.

Matthew WOODBURN and Isabella DRIPPS had the following children:

Londonderry, Northern Ireland. Lizzie apparently married a Browne. (Could this be the brother of her brother Matthew's wife, Isabella?) All information regarding this person was obtained from David Woodburn (CIS: 100554,526) and needs to be confirmed.

Elizabeth "Lizzie" WOODBURN and John BROWN were married between September 28, 1858 and January in Macosquin, Co. Derry. John BROWN was born (date unknown).

John BROWN and Elizabeth WOODBURN had the following children:

- 117 i. John BROWN was born on March 11, 1865.
 118 ii. Matthew Woodburn BROWN was born on July 8, 1867.
 119 iii. William Thomas BROWN was born on January 4, 1870.

47. Mary Anne WOODBURN was baptized on October 18, 1836 in First Garvagh Pres Ch., Garvagh, Co. Londonderry, N. Ireland. She was born about 1838 in Ballintemple, Errigal, Co. Londonderry, N. Ireland. According to Anne Rankin, supposed granddaughter of Mary Ann, she married David Millar in 1861 at First Garvagh Presbyterian Church in Ireland.

Mary Anne WOODBURN and David MILLAR were married on March 7, 1861 in First Garvagh Presbyterian Church, Garvagh, Derry, Northern Ireland. David MILLAR was born in 1836 in Co. Tyrone, Northern Ireland. He died on July 21, 1913 at the age of 77 in Lack, Co. Fermanagh, Northern Ireland. All information regarding David Millar and his family and their descendants was obtained from the work of Christopher Earls Brennan, titled The Badger Family Chronicles, and published at <http://www.dankat.com/badger/chap8.htm>, in 2012. This source will not be repeated.

On his marriage certificate, David is described as of full age, a bachelor farmer of Churchtown, County Tyrone whose father is David Millar, a farmer, while Mary Anne is described as a spinster of full age of Ballintemple whose father is Matthew Woodburn, a farmer. The witnesses were Thomas Millar (probably his eldest brother) and James McElpatrick.

David and Mary Anne must have moved around, for their son Charles was born in County Fermanagh in 1863 while their daughter Isabella and their first son John were born in County Tyrone in 1865 and 1873 and their son William Walter and daughter Agness were born in County Fermanagh in 1875 and 1882. So they must have moved from Newtown Stewart, County Tyrone, to Lack, County Fermanagh between 1873 and 1875. By the time of the 1901 Census they are living in the village of Lack. In the 1896 Belfast and Ulster Directory, the section on the village of Lack includes the inhabitant David Millar, clerk of the petty sessions. Since the petty sessions in Lack were only held every month or so this was probably a part time assignment and David probably also ran a farm. Though David is listed in the Lack household in the 1911 Census, he appears to have been absent during the 1901 Census and so is not listed in that return. However, in the 1911 Census David is listed as a 72-year-old Clerk of the Petty Sessions (Presbyterian like the rest of the family and born in County Tyrone) living in the village of Lack, County Fermanagh, with his wife, 72-year-old Mary Anne Miller (born in County Derry), two of their children, and two grandchildren, 5-year-old Ella Noble (Anglican and born in Co.Fermanagh) and 1-year-old Gordon Miller (Presbyterian and born in Belfast). Also listed in the household is a domestic servant, 18-year-old Mary Anne Higherty, a Roman Catholic born in County Tyrone. David Miller is also listed as a Clerk of the Petty Sessions on the marriage certificate of his son John Wesley Miller. David died in Lack on July 21, 1913.

David MILLAR and Mary Anne WOODBURN had the following children:

- +120 i. David MILLER, born December 15, 1861, Churchtown, Parish of Ardstraw, Co.Tyrone, Northern Ireland; married Eliza Jane RINCHEY, 1890; died 1921.
- +121 ii. Thomas MILLER, born July 1, 1863, Churchtown, Parish of Ardstraw, Co.Tyrone, Northern Ireland; married Mary BOWLES, July 31, 1894, Colaghty Church of Ireland, Lack, Co. Fermanagh; died March 26, 1921.
- 122 iii. Charles MILLER was born on June 12, 1865 in Kesh, Co. Fermanagh, Northern Ireland. He died between December 23, 1922 and January in Lack, Co. Fermanagh, Northern Ireland. In the 1901 Irish Census Charles is listed as an unmarried 29-year-old farmer's son (born in Co.Fermanagh) living in the village of Lack, County Fermanagh, with his parents. In the 1911 Census he is listed as an unmarried 37-year-old agricultural laborer (born in Co.Fermanagh) living in the village of Lack, County Fermanagh, with his parents. Charles signed the Ulster Covenant in Lack on September 28, 1912.
- +123 iv. Isabella Woodburn MILLER, born October 2, 1866, Newtownstewart, Co. - +124 v. Mathew MILLER, born August 4, 1868, Newtonstewart, Co.Tyrone, Northern Ireland; married Etta MYERS, December 26, 1894, Manhattan, New York, New York; died February 15, 1921, Hudson Co., New Jersey,.
- 125 vi. John MILLER was born on July 27, 1870 in Newtonstewart, Co.Tyrone, Northern Ireland. He died on October 20, 1871 at the age of 1 in Newtonstewart, Co.Tyrone, Northern Ireland. It is not clear when John died. In the 1891 register of the Lack School, a 17-year-old John Millar is listed as Presbyterian and the son of the Clerk of the Petty Sessions. Alternatively, a John Miller died on October 20, 1871, in Newtownstewart. He is memorialized in a gravestone inscription in Ardstraw Old cemetery which reads, in part, ... John Miller Who died 20th Oct 1871 aged 16 months.

According to Richard Torrens (<http://www.4qd.co.uk/torrens>), a Mary Jane Woodburn married Samuel Torrance of Tamlaght. Richard notes in his quite interesting and thoroughly researched website that there is tradition whereby Scotch-Irish parents named their children for their own parents and siblings according to an established pattern. The tradition is as follows:.

First son - named after father's father (Paternal Grandfather) Second son - named after mother's father (Maternal Grandfather) Third son - named after father First daughter - named after mother's mother (Maternal Grandmother) Second daughter - named after father's mother (Paternal Grandmother) Third daughter - named after mother

While one must be careful to draw too many conclusions from this pattern, it can help identify children to a particular family.

The Rev Matthew Woodburn – 1862-1877

Eighth Minister of Ballywillan Presbyterian Church

Five months after Mr Huey's death in 1862, his successor, Mr Matthew Woodburn of Ballintemple, Garvagh, was ordained. On Tuesday, 24th June 1862, a congregation of fully 1000 persons (according to the Chronicle report) assembled at Ballywillan. As it was felt that the church was not large enough to hold all those who wished to attend the ordination service, arrangements were made to hold the service in an adjacent field. Unfortunately June 1862 was a very wet month, and the ordination day was cold and wintry, 'the foliage on trees and hedgerows, and the verdure of the fields, alone tending to keep up the illusion that it was a summer gale stirred the sea and rustled in the grass'(Chronicle). However a screened platform was provided so that the ministers could conduct the service in comparative comfort.

Mr Woodburn lived at Islandmore after his ordination, and the manse must have been built shortly after, as the births of all the Woodburn children are noted in the Baptismal Register as taking place at the manse. There were six children:

- Annie Barkley, born 8th August 1865
- George, born 9th September 1867
- Jane, born 6th June 1869
- Mary Georgina, born 5th January 1871
- James Barkley born 12th March 1872
- Elizabeth Brown (Lily) born 10th April 1874

Both of his sons entered the ministry, George Woodburn was Professor of Logic and Philosophy and later President of Magee College, and Dr James Barkley Woodburn was minister of Castlerock and later Fitzroy Avenue, Belfast, and was the author of 'The Ulster Scot'. In July 1897 Annie, the eldest daughter, married William Johnson of Belfast; apparently the other Woodburn girls did not marry. Janie lived at Annadale, Newtownbreda, where her mother's brother, D.G.Barkley, a former Judge in the Supreme Court, N.W.P. India, lived. She and her sister Lily later lived at Greenock, where they both died.

During 1876 the Rev Woodburn became ill, and was no longer able to continue his work at Ballywillan. Sadly, his younger brother, James, who also intended to enter the ministry, died in January of that year while still a licentiate of Coleraine Presbytery, aged only 26 years.

At a meeting of the Coleraine Presbytery on 10th February 1877 'several members expressed sincere sorrow upon hearing that Mr Woodburn's recovery was so slow, and the Rev J Simpson, at the request of the Presbytery, engaged in solemn and affecting prayer on his behalf'. A few months later Mr Woodburn wrote the following letter to the congregation:

A Voice from the Border Land
Dear Friends,

It is now almost a year since God in His Providence laid me aside from my work amongst you, and called me to bear the burden of affliction. It is fitting, at the close of this year of sorrow both to you and me, that as I am still unable to speak to you by word of mouth, I should ask your kind indulgence to allow me a few words by letter. I am sorry to say that my illness still continues, and that no permanent improvement in my health has taken place. I had fondly hoped that this summer would have restored me, but this hope seems now fated to be disappointed. At the same time I have much cause to be thankful that my suffering has not been greater, and that there is still reasonable hope that time and care may, with God's blessing, restore me so that I can again resume work, and be privileged to live and labour for my Master in the ministry of the Gospel. That God may be pleased to grant this is my earnest prayer, in submission to His will, as I know it is yours also.

Allow me to say how much I have been gratified by your whole conduct towards me during the past year. It has been an inexpressible consolation to me to be the subject of your manifold prayers. It has greatly relieved my sorrow to receive from you such repeated expressions of your sympathy. It has helped me to bear with patience my long affliction that you have shown me such forbearance and kindness. When oppressed with sorrow, and depressed in spirit, my heart has been cheered and relieved with the thought that you felt for me such affection; and interested yourselves so deeply in my welfare. This affliction is not joyous, but grievous, yet I could thank God for it, even if it had no other result than letting me see the depth and strength of your love. I thank you all for having me so much in your thoughts, and upon your hearts.

One of my greatest sorrows has been that I was unable to attend upon the sick and dying. Many of my esteemed friends have been in the furnace, and I felt sad that I could not be near to pour a drop of comfort into their hearts. Many of my loved ones have gone away, and I have mourned that I could not speak a word of promise to the dying ear, or help to lift up the departing soul in living faith to God. I sorrow greatly that I shall see their faces no more. But whilst I can only give the suffering and bereaved my sympathy and prayers, He who is the God of all grace and comfort can enter fully into our trials. He can say to the troubled and fearful soul, "Peace be still". "Fear not I am with thee". I trust and pray that God may so reveal Himself to every tried one as to turn their sorrow into joy, and to give them the garment of praise for the spirit of heaviness.

Although I have been prevented from preaching the Gospel, yet I am glad that my place has been efficiently filled by others. I trust a rich blessing may follow their labours. I desire "fruit that may abound to your account," and have no greater pleasure than seeing "my children walking in the truth." There is nothing I desire more earnestly than your salvation. What greater blessing can I wish you than the blessing of eternal life. Let me urge you to lay hold on this.

Brethren, the time is short, and the matter at stake is inconceivably precious. What is aught else compared with the salvation of the soul? What matters it what we have, or enjoy, if we have not an interest in Christ, and do not enjoy God forever? What can fit us for the duties and toils of life; what can support and comfort us in affliction; what can brighten our dying hour; what can open to us the gates of glory but a saving interest in Christ. Suffer me then to exhort you – it may be for the last time – to take Christ as your Saviour, and put all your dependence on His righteousness, and, as His people, to walk in the fear of the Lord, and in the comfort of the Holy Ghost, that so an abundant entrance may be administered unto you into the everlasting Kingdom of God. I trust that, even if my work be done, I shall not have spent my strength for nought, or laboured in vain; but that I shall have the great joy of meeting you all at the right hand of the King when He cometh in His Kingdom. What the future may bring to me – whether sickness or health, life or death – we cannot know. God has hidden it from us. But we know whatever it be it shall be both wise and good. His ways are higher than our ways, and His thoughts than our thoughts. Pray for me, that I may be restored to health, and to work among you, if God will; but if not – if the present shadow should deepen until it shuts out the light of my life – that God may lift up upon me the light of His countenance, and that I may be prepared, by His grace and power, to triumph over death, and enter into the joy of my Lord.

I am, dear Friends,
Your loving Pastor,

Mathew Woodburn Maghera, August 1877

On 28th November 1877, Mr Woodburn died at the manse, aged only 36. An obituary in 'The Witness' mentions that he died of consumption. It goes on to say that Mr Woodburn was a fine scholar, whose people ever found in him not only an able expositor of the Word of Truth, but a kind and attentive friend.

Mr. Woodburn had wished to be buried in the grounds of his own church, but as the lease of the church lands prohibits burial there, he was buried in Ballywillan old graveyard. The funeral service was attended by a very large number of friends and neighbours, in spite of the bleak and biting November day. (Chronicle 8th Dec 1877). Rev J Simpson and Rev Professor Witherow conducted the service at the grave. After her husband's death, Mrs Woodburn and her children went to live with her brother in Maghera. Mrs Woodburn died in 1885.

80. Ellen Jane HUSTON was born in May, 1846 in Garvagh, Co. Londonderry, N. Ireland. She was baptized on May 15, 1846 in First Garvagh Pres Ch., Garvagh, Co. Londonderry, N. Ireland. According to Janet Houston Rhein, 3010 Dick Wilson Drive, Sarasota, FL 34240; email: janrhein@worldnet.att.net, in the late 1860's Ellen lived with a Job Wyshall (born in England in 1832) in New Brighton, Beaver County, Pennsylvania, where she was apparently a maid or housekeeper. Mr. Wyshall may have been a riverboat captain. In 1890, Ellen lived at 136 Eureka Street, Pittsburgh, Pa. She later lived in Ocean Grove, New Jersey.

Janet Houston Rhein is fairly certain that Ellen Jane Huston married her first cousin based on correspondence in her possession. It is clear from Hannah Huston's letter, dated December 12, 1867, to her brother James Wilson Houston, that "Aunt Nancy Dunlap is mother's sister" and "the oldest child is James Dunlap and he is about twenty three years of age". This would make James' date of birth about 1844. In a letter, dated February 11, 1869, from James Wilson Houston to Ellen Jane, he says "give my respect to cousin James". This is assumed to be James Wilson Dunlap and there appears to be some on-going contact between Ellen Jane and James Wilson Dunlap. One could make the point that the reference was to James Young, born 1854, the son of Hugh and Martha Wilson Young. That is not believed to be the situation here.

On April 5, 1876, Isabella Wilson Huston, her daughter Ellen Jane, who was 30 years of age, and her son, William John, left for Ireland. Her notes in the diary describe their trip in some detail, Philadelphia (it was the year of the Centennial), Jersey City, New York City, the ocean voyage, and the arrival in Ireland. It is clear that she went to Garvagh. At this point, the remaining pages in the diary have been removed. There is no mention of James Wilson Dunlap being on the voyage with them. The next thing we are aware of is a letter from an Alexander Dougald Munn, dated August 16, 1876, Pittsburgh, addressed to "Friend Jas." in Garvagh, County Londonderry, Ireland. Among other things, he comments on the "cool summer on that little Island" and "Yourself and Ellen to pay a visit to Kilbarchan, Scotland". This may have been the area in Scotland from which the Dunlaps and the Munns emigrated. He also expresses concern as to James' health. He states further "as you will be out of the City (Pittsburgh) during the present year there is no need to pay the personal property tax." It is clear that James was subject to the tax. It has not been documented that he was a U. S. citizen. There is a James Dunlap who became a U. S. citizen in Pittsburgh on September 3, 1871. Whether this is the same individual, is not known. James appears to be a man of some means (albeit it may have been modest).

In a letter dated, Pittsburgh, October 27, 1876, Dougald Munn, father of Alexander, writes to "My Young Friend" and this letter is enclosed in an envelope addressed to James W. Dunlap, Garvagh, Ireland. The handwriting is beautiful and the envelope and enclosed letter, except for the discoloration of the paper, looks like they were written yesterday. In the letter he states, "John Huston is out of work" and "your Brother-In-Law had a little son baptized last Monday". The baby would have been John Duff Houston, born July 21, 1876, the oldest son of , James Wilson and Sarah McCutcheon Houston.

It is interesting is that these letters addressed to James W. Dunlap in Ireland found their way into the Houston family files. First, it is fairly certain that Ellen Jane did marry James Dunlap, as there is substantial additional correspondence in which James Wilson Houston addresses his sister as Ellen Jane Dunlap. It appears that they were married in 1876 either shortly before or after their arrival in Ireland as James Dunlap apparently had written to Alexander Dougald Munn that Ellen Jane was ill on the trip to Ireland. There is no record in the remaining pages in Isabella's diary that James Dunlap accompanied them on the voyage. While the marriage has not been absolutely verified, other than above, it is fairly certain that Ellen Jane did marry a James Dunlap and there is a high degree of probability that this James Dunlap is the son of Hugh Dunlap and Nancy Wilson, the sister of Martha and Isabella.

Ellen Jane HUSTON and James Wilson DUNLAP were married about 1876. James Wilson DUNLAP, son of Hugh DUNLAP and Nancy WILSON, was born about 1844. According to Janet Houston Rhein, 3010 Dick Wilson Drive, Sarasota, FL 34240; email: janrhein@worldnet.att.net, James came from Garvagh, Co. Londonderry, N. Ireland. He became a U.S. Citizen on September 3, 1871 in Pittsburgh, Allegheny Co., Pennsylvania. He and his wife Ellen visited Garvagh in 1876, at a time when he may not have been in the best of health.

He was buried on February 11, 1920 in Homewood Cemetery, Pittsburgh, Allegheny Co., Pennsylvania. In 1862, James was one of 46 pupils entering Central High School, Pittsburgh, Pennsylvania. It was sometimes referred to as 'the Smithfield Street dungeon'. He later was a distinguished alumnus of Duff's College, Pittsburgh, Pennsylvania, the first mercantile college started in America. At some point, James apparently changed his last name to Houston. In December 1866, he went to Plumer, Venango County, Pennsylvania to work in a grocery store. He returned to Pittsburgh and opened his own grocery store--James W. Houston & Co. Wholesale Grocers, 21 Seventh Ave., Pittsburgh, Pennsylvania. (This recollection is consistent with the information supplied by David Woodburn, who said that two daughters of Matthew and Isabel Woodburn, a Mrs. Scott of Ballymena and a Mrs. Brewster of Coleraine, lived in Ireland while their seven other children went to the United States.) According to Nancy Rosenblatt, he greatly admired Queen Victoria and he had a fiery temper.

Robert immigrated to the United States on the S.S.Scandinavian, arriving in the Port of Baltimore in September 1888. His age is shown to be 22, his occupation is shown to be a miner, and his intended destination is Allegheny City, Pennsylvania. From some reason, the manifest states he from Scotland.

Londonderry, N. Ireland. He became a U.S. Citizen on September 3, 1871 in Pittsburgh, Allegheny Co., Pennsylvania. He and his wife Ellen visited Garvagh in 1876, at a time when he may not have been in the best of health.

James Wilson DUNLAP and Ellen Jane HUSTON were married about 1876. Ellen Jane HUSTON, daughter of John HUSTON and Isabella WILSON, was born in May, 1846 in Garvagh, Co. Londonderry, N. Ireland. She was baptized on May 15, 1846 in First Garvagh Pres Ch., Garvagh, Co. Londonderry, N. Ireland. According to Janet Houston Rhein, 3010 Dick Wilson Drive, Sarasota, FL 34240; email: janrhein@worldnet.att.net, in the late 1860's Ellen lived with a Job Wyshall (born in England in 1832) in New Brighton, Beaver County, Pennsylvania, where she was apparently a maid or housekeeper. Mr. Wyshall may have been a riverboat captain. In 1890, Ellen lived at 136 Eureka Street, Pittsburgh, Pa. She later lived in Ocean Grove, New Jersey.

Janet Houston Rhein is fairly certain that Ellen Jane Huston married her first cousin based on correspondence in her possession. It is clear from Hannah Huston's letter, dated December 12, 1867, to her brother James Wilson Houston, that "Aunt Nancy Dunlap is mother's sister" and "the oldest child is James Dunlap and he is about twenty three years of age". This would make James' date of birth about 1844. In a letter, dated February 11, 1869, from James Wilson Houston to Ellen Jane, he says "give my respect to cousin James". This is assumed to be James Wilson Dunlap and there appears to be some on-going contact between Ellen Jane and James Wilson Dunlap. One could make the point that the reference was to James Young, born 1854, the son of Hugh and Martha Wilson Young. That is not believed to be the situation here.

On April 5, 1876, Isabella Wilson Huston, her daughter Ellen Jane, who was 30 years of age, and her son, William John, left for Ireland. Her notes in the diary describe their trip in some detail, Philadelphia (it was the year of the Centennial), Jersey City, New York City, the ocean voyage, and the arrival in Ireland. It is clear that she went to Garvagh. At this point, the remaining pages in the diary have been removed. There is no mention of James Wilson Dunlap being on the voyage with them. The next thing we are aware of is a letter from an Alexander Dougald Munn, dated August 16, 1876, Pittsburgh, addressed to "Friend Jas." in Garvagh, County Londonderry, Ireland. Among other things, he comments on the "cool summer on that little Island" and "Yourself and Ellen to pay a visit to Kilbarchan, Scotland". This may have been the area in Scotland from which the Dunlaps and the Munns emigrated. He also expresses concern as to James' health. He states further "as you will be out of the City (Pittsburgh) during the present year there is no need to pay the personal property tax." It is clear that James was subject to the tax. It has not been documented that he was a U. S. citizen. There is a James Dunlap who became a U. S. citizen in Pittsburgh on September 3, 1871. Whether this is the same individual, is not known. James appears to be a man of some means (albeit it may have been modest).

In a letter dated, Pittsburgh, October 27, 1876, Dougald Munn, father of Alexander, writes to "My Young Friend" and this letter is enclosed in an envelope addressed to James W. Dunlap, Garvagh, Ireland. The handwriting is beautiful and the envelope and enclosed letter, except for the discoloration of the paper, looks like they were written yesterday. In the letter he states, "John Huston is out of work" and "your Brother-In-Law had a little son baptized last Monday". The baby would have been John Duff Houston, born July 21, 1876, the oldest son of , James Wilson and Sarah McCutcheon Houston.

It is interesting is that these letters addressed to James W. Dunlap in Ireland found their way into the Houston family files. First, it is fairly certain that Ellen Jane did marry James Dunlap, as there is substantial additional correspondence in which James Wilson Houston addresses his sister as Ellen Jane Dunlap. It appears that they were married in 1876 either shortly before or after their arrival in Ireland as James Dunlap apparently had written to Alexander Dougald Munn that Ellen Jane was ill on the trip to Ireland. There is no record in the remaining pages in Isabella's diary that James Dunlap accompanied them on the voyage. While the marriage has not been absolutely verified, other than above, it is fairly certain that Ellen Jane did marry a James Dunlap and there is a high degree of probability that this James Dunlap is the son of Hugh Dunlap and Nancy Wilson, the sister of Martha and Isabella.

He is travelling with his aunt Martha B. Calvin (43, married) who is a US citizen and is returning home to 50 North Michigan Avenue, Pasadena, California. Martha was the sister of Robert's mother, Lila Buchanan. According to his granddaughter Nancy Gosser Rosenblatt, he was from Coleraine, in N. Ireland. She also thinks he had two sisters who lived in N. Ireland. (This recollection is consistent with the information supplied by David Woodburn, who said that two daughters of Matthew and Isabel Woodburn, a Mrs. Scott of Ballymena and a Mrs. Brewster of Coleraine, lived in Ireland while their seven other children went to the United States.) According to Nancy Rosenblatt, he greatly admired Queen Victoria and he had a fiery temper.

Somewhat older than the usual high school teacher and with a PhD degree in his background, he was a very impressive teacher who delighted in demonstrations from his laboratory and in explaining the principles behind them. Thereafter my original interest in aeronautical engineering was in heavy competition with physical science."

His 28th Division suffered over 14,000 battle casualties. He later was a teacher in the Pittsburgh Public School System.

The following memorial was published in the Princeton Alumni Weekly on July 21, 1980:

"ALF HOUSTON gained relief on Jan. 20 after an eight-month battle with cancer. He was born in Pittsburgh on May 19, 1892, and came to Princeton front Shadyside Academy. In Princeton he was a warm, friendly undergraduate who did not participate in many extracurricular activities, stuck to his knitting and to his small group of close friends.

Upon graduation, Alf joined the family business of wholesale grocers. In World War I, he served several years in the Army, much of the time with the AEF in France, and returned to the grocery business on discharge. In 1927, at age 35, he made a difficult decision to give up his job and be a teacher. He taught English in various schools in Pittsburgh until his retirement.

His daughter writes, "Although my father confessed to be angered and upset by some of the more recent decisions made by the university, he never lost his devotion to and interest in Princeton. Some of his most happy memories were of his Princeton days." It is sad to the class that he was unable to set aside prejudice against present University policies and join with the class in happy days of Reunions.

In 1928 Alf married Gertrude Grubbs, and had one daughter, Janet, who today is Mrs. Joseph P. Rhein of Wynnewood, Pennsylvania. There are three grandchildren. The class feels that it such a great loss in Alf's withdrawal from reunion days, with its members, and it is certain that Alf would have added much to the life of the class and would have greatly enjoyed the renewal of association. The thought saddens all of us even more when we learn of Alf's love of and devotion to Princeton.

Our deep sympathy goes out to Alf's Gertrude, daughter, Janet, the three grandchildren and his 101-year-old sister, Anne Dysart."

The obituary below creates a confusing problem. We know that Alice S. Madden, mentioned in the obituary, was born in Illinois in about 1930. We know that her maiden name was Shorey. We know that Alice Shorey, married to a Ralph Shorey, died December 21, 1929 in Chicago, Illinois. We know that Alice Webb and Agnes Webb were sisters. The only solution to the problem is that Ralph Shorey married Agnes after Alice's death. If this is true, it is not clear why Agnes and Ralph did not raise Alice, except perhaps that they did not want to disrupt Alice's life any further.

The following obituary was published in the McDonald (Washington Co., Pennsylvania) Record-Outlook on April 12, 1984 and was transcribed and made available on the Rootsweb.com message boards in 2013:

The following obituary was published in the Proceedings of the Society for Analytical Chemistry (1974), v. 11, pp. 185-186:

CECIL LEEBURN WILSON

Cecil Wilson, Professor of Analytical Chemistry in The Queen's University of Belfast, died on Tuesday, March 19th, 1974, of a cerebral haemorrhage following some years of failing health.

He was born in Maghera, Co. Londonderry, in 1912 and received his early education at Rainey Endowed School, Magherafelt. In 1929 he entered Queen's University to study chemistry, achieving a First Class Honours B.Sc. in 1932 and an M.Sc. in 1933. A Musgrave Research Scholarship allowed him to study for a Ph.D. at Glasgow University and on attaining this goal he returned to Queen's in 1936 as an Assistant Lecturer. Here he was able to pursue what proved to be his lifelong interest in microchemistry. In 1939 he was appointed to an assistant lectureship at the Sir John Cass College in London, from which he was released for war service from 1940 to 1944 with the Armaments Research Department of the Ministry of Supply. He would recall, with characteristic humour, how much he valued his micro-chemical skill in the exercise of his task of analysing enemy detonators. After a brief return to the Cass, he was appointed to a Lectureship in Chemistry at Queen's in 1946 and became a Reader in 1950. In 1953 he obtained his D.Sc. and in 1958 was appointed to a personal Chair in Analytical Chemistry, the first of these ever created in the UK. This was converted into an established Chair of Inorganic and Analytical Chemistry in 1963, which, in 1968, was split into separate Chairs, Cecil Wilson retaining the Chair of Analytical Chemistry until his death.

Cecil Wilson's main interest lay in the field of inorganic microanalysis. He was a skilled microscopist and was largely responsible for the development of the torsion-fibre sub-micro balance. His first book, "An Introduction to Microchemical Methods," was published in 1938 and, following the war, he published two editions, in co-authorship with Professor Belcher, of a book on inorganic microanalysis. Similar co-operation produced various editions of the well known "New Methods of Analytical Chemistry." He was a chemist of wide interests and, although these were principally concerned with analytical chemistry, he found time and energy to keep up with inorganic and physical chemistry. With Professor Stewart at Queen's he published the seventh edition of "Recent Advances in Inorganic and Physical Chemistry" and with Bamett at the Cass he produced the well established inorganic chemistry text. In his undergraduate lectures, he took pleasure in teaching fundamental inorganic chemistry to first-year students.

During his Professorship, he developed a research school of diverse interests which offered postgraduate experience to students from an equally varied range of countries. Some thirty students passed under his care with the production of one hundred or so papers.

Professor Wilson's taste for the English language led him into many analytical literary endeavours. He was elected to the Editorial Board of Microchimica Acta in 1949 and served on it to the time of his death; between 1955 and 1962 he also acted as regional editor for papers written in English. When Talanta was established in 1958, he became its first Editor in Chief, acting as such up to 1964 and since then acting as consulting editor. In 1959, in conjunction with his brother David, he became Editor of the series "Comprehensive Analytical Chemistry" and, since its foundation in 1967, he served on the editorial board of Analytical Letters.

Cecil Wilson gave generously of his time and energy to the activities of scientific bodies and the administration of his university. He served on the Council of the SAC three times since 1951. He was a founder member of the Microchemical Group and acted as Chairman in 1951-52. He was a Fellow of the Royal Institute of Chemistry and acted for many years as chairman of the Northern Ireland Section. His growing international reputation led to honorary membership of the Austrian Microchemical Society in 1955 and he was elected to membership of the Royal Irish Academy in 1966. He served for three years as Dean in the Faculty of Science; he was a member of the University Senate, of Boards of Curators and of committees innumerable.

His work in microanalytical chemistry and his rare spirit of enquiry led him to an active interest the authenticity of written and printed documents. He became an acknowledged expert and from 1953 was Document Examiner to the Ministry of Home Affairs of Northern Ireland. He frequently appeared as an expert witness in court proceedings and, as many of us will know from experience, was in great demand to instruct and entertain audiences of all descriptions in this field.

Let us remember how Cecil Wilson's liveliness of mind, sagacity, integrity and warm humanity brought pleasure to gatherings of analytical chemists, not only in the UK but throughout the world. His great charm, sincerity and humour turned many colleagues rapidly into personal friends. Nor were these superficial impressions, for he applied with consistency the same courtesy and kindness to porters, secretaries, raw young lecturers and senior university staff alike. As a superior he was ever helpful yet never interfering or unjustly critical. Cecil Wilson was a true gentleman. The loss which we as a Chemistry Department here at Queen's now feel will be repeated in the larger context of the Society for Analytical Chemistry.

He is survived by his wife Grace, a daughter and a son. M. A. LEONARD.

John Duff Houston, Jr.

BORN: May 5, 1917
 DIED: July 25, 2008
 LOCATION: Manassas, Virginia

John Duff Houston, Jr. (AKA "Zeke") age 91 of Manassas, Virginia, died Friday, July 25, 2008 at Prince William Hospital.

Born in Pittsburgh, Pennsylvania, May 5, 1917 to John Duff Houston, Sr. and Rosetta Moore Houston, John and his siblings (James and Sally) grew up in the Murrayhill section of Pittsburgh, where he attended Taylor Allderdice High School. John later graduated from the University of Pittsburgh with a degree in History.

Upon completing his studies, John first went to work for the "Railroads". Soon thereafter, his entrepreneurial spirits kicked in and he became owner/operator of his first Exxon gas station in Squirrel Hill, later adding Jeep Dealerships and Discount Merchandise Houses to his portfolio. Moreover, John served two years in the U.S. Army as Lt. Col., Director of Logistics, in Churchill, Manitoba, Canada, and Naples, Italy, during World War II.

John married Marie King Minnemeyer in 1952, having 3 sons, John, Henry and Timothy. In 1964, he moved his family to Manassas, VA, when he became President of Woodbridge Clay Products (Brick Company) in Manassas, VA. In 1991, John retired from B. M. Smith and Associates in Arlington, Virginia where he served as President and Principal Broker for approximately 20 years.

John enjoyed spending the summers of his youth in Chatauqua Lake, New York, where he raced his Lightning Sailboat every Sunday and occasionally got in a round of golf.

John was a dedicated family man and long-term member of the Manassas Rotary Club. In his later years, his favorite thing to do was to eat dinner at the City Tavern in Old Towne Manassas. A highly talented musician, John could often be found playing the accordion or piano with his "fourth son", Alfred (a 140 pound American Foxhound), standing by his side attempting to sing along with the music. John was also proud of his ability to summon Alfred using the pager on the cordless telephone!

John is survived by his 3 sons John, Henry and Tim of Gainesville, Casaonova and Alexandria, Virginia, respectively, in addition to 2 grandsons Johnny and Michael, and 2 daughters in law, Jane and Doreen. He is also survived by John D. II, William A., Roberta and Jeannie Houston, all of Pittsburgh, Pennsylvania.

Marie King Minnemeyer Houston

BORN: September 27, 1923

DIED: January 8, 2008

LOCATION: Manassas, Virginia

MARIE KING MINNEMEYER HOUSTON, age 84 of Manassas, Virginia died Tuesday, January 8, 2008 at Prince William Hospital, Manassas..

Born in Pittsburgh, Pennsylvania, September 27, 1923 to Henry W. Minnemeyer III and Gladys King Minnemeyer. Marie and her family soon moved to Washington, PA where she attended East Washington High School. In 1947, Marie graduated from Carnegie Tech, now Carnegie Mellon University in Pittsburgh where she studied Drama and Psychology.

After graduating from college, Marie went on to New York City to pursue her acting dreams. In just a short amount of time, she was selected to be the understudy for Barbara Bel Geddes in the lead role of the original Broadway production of "Blue Moon". Marie's acting career took a sharp turn in 1952, however, when she married John D. Houston, Jr. and returned to Pittsburgh to begin raising a family. Marie had three sons, John D.

III, Henry and Timothy, before moving to Manassas, Virginia in 1964 with her husband and children.

Marie held on to her love for the theatre and soon became a founder and co-owner of the Hayloft Dinner Theatre in Manassas. As usual, Marie wanted the best and made sure that her theatre was the only "Actor's Equity" playhouse in the area, entertaining talent from Ray Walston to Maureen O'Hara. Her well known Christmas parties also made front page news in the Manassas Journal Messenger.

Marie enjoyed spending summers all of her life at Chatauqua Lake, New York, swimming, sailing and having cocktails on the porch at sunset. Marie tried to convey her style of living to others and founded Evergreen Farm Development with her partners in 1971. This later became Evergreen Country Club, the first upscale 18 hole full service private country club in the area. Marie also very much enjoyed being a member of the Sudley Swim and Tennis Club in Manassas, VA, sticking to mostly sunbathing and entertaining the children.

Marie loved life and was kind and helpful to everyone, rich and poor. She was active in the Multiple Sclerosis Foundation and local politics. She loved animals. Marie had one cat as child (Smokey), but that was not enough. During her married life, she had 1 more cat (Helmut), 4 dogs (Alfie, Woofier, Samantha and Tony) and treated them all like little kings, including regular weekend trips to her beach house in Virginia Beach. Marie's love of animals also included horses. Marie took great pride in ownership and exhibition of some of the nation's finest show hunters. Marie will always be remembered at those events for her short skirts and counter-culture Schlitz Beer sun hat.

Marie is survived by her loving husband of 56 years, John D. Houston, Jr. of Manassas, three sons, John Houston III and wife Jane and their children, John D. Houston and Michael Houston of Gainesville, VA, Henry Houston and wife Doreen of Casanova, VA and Tim Houston of Alexandria, VA. Also survived by John D. II, William A., Roberta and Jeannie Houston, all of Pittsburgh and two cousins, Betty King Unger, of Pittsburgh and Marilyn King Jessen of Virginia Beach, VA.

The family will receive friends from 3:00-6:00 P.M. Sunday, January 13, 2008 at Pierce Funeral Home, 9609 Center Street, Manassas. Interment will be private at Allegheny Cemetery in Pittsburgh, PA at a later date.

Expressions of sympathy may take the form of flowers, or contributions to City of Manassas Animal Adoption Center, 10039 Dean Drive, Manassas, VA 20110 in memory of Marie Houston.

Elizabeth "Libby" GIBSON and John Deaver DRINKO were married on May 14, 1946. John Deaver DRINKO died on January 30, 2008 in Palm Springs, Riverside Co., California. He was born in St. Mary's, West Virginia. The following obituary appeared in The Plain Dealer (Cleveland, Ohio) on January 31, 2008:

John Deaver Drinko dies; guided growth of Baker Hostetler law firm

He referred to himself as a poor boy from the hills of West Virginia, who as a youth during the Depression wrestled bears and sold women's hosiery door to door to earn money to support his mother and sister.

But most people knew John Deaver Drinko either as the brilliant lawyer who guided the growth of the Cleveland law firm Baker Hostetler for 16 years or as the man whose support helped build college, law school and medical facilities throughout the region.

Drinko, 86, died Wednesday night in a hospital in Palm Springs, Calif., where he and his wife, Elizabeth, spent winter months. A cause of death was not immediately reported, although a family spokeswoman said Drinko had been suffering from pneumonia.

From spring through fall, Drinko could be found at his downtown law office on the 33rd floor of the National City Center building. He often worked five days a week, dividing his time between his law practice and extensive charitable work.

He gave away millions of dollars of his own money to various institutions, particularly higher education.

Because of his philanthropy, Drinko's name appears on several college buildings, among them a $29 million library at Marshall College, now known as Marshall University, in Huntington, W.Va., where he received his bachelor's degree in 1942; the Ohio State University Michael E. Moritz College of Law, where he received his law degree in 1944; and a recital hall at Cleveland State University.

He funded other educational endeavors, endowing a total of 15 faculty chairs at various schools. Two were at Ohio State, with others at Case Western Reserve University School of Law, Case Western's nursing program, John Carroll University, Cleveland State University Cleveland-Marshall College of Law, Capital University Law School and the Dwyer Learning Center at Notre Dame College of Ohio, which in May 1997 awarded him an honorary degree -- his 10th.

Among the institutions benefiting from his generosity were Baldwin-Wallace, Capital, Hiram, Lake Erie, Mount Union and Ohio University.

He also spent years in education-related board work. He was a trustee of the Ohio State University Foundation, the Marshall University Foundation and the Sage Cleveland Foundation.

He credited education for his success

Drinko said that education helped him escape a hard-scrabble beginning and that without it, "I would still be back shooting squirrels in West Virginia.

"I was a poor boy, and someone had to build those dang places before I got there, so I always wanted to pay that back," he said.

"Education opens the world," he said. "It helps to improve you as a person. That's why reading is a great thing. Education became a great economic force in our society. The economic impact of all the Cleveland colleges is tremendous."

Drinko's board work extended beyond education. He was a trustee and president of the Mellen Foundation, created by former Cleveland investment banker Edward J. Mellen, who amassed a fortune by buying, selling and financing about 20 small industrial companies.

He was a trustee of the Hostetler Foundation, created by Joseph C. Hostetler, who together with Newton D. Baker, founded Baker & Hostetler. He also was a trustee of the Baker Hostetler Founders' Trust, the firm's charitable arm.

He was board chairman of the Cleveland Institute of Electronics Inc. and of Double D Ranch Inc., which he established in 1971 in Coshocton County. It started as a hobby farm and grew into a 1,700-acre crop-and-cattle enterprise.

Drinko also was a past director of Cloyes Gear and Products Inc. and the Standard Products Co. and was still on the boards of the Orvis Co. and Prefomed Line Products Co. when he died.

He inspired those around him

Drinko's vast intellect -- his IQ in college was 185 -- inspired awe among the firm's young lawyers and others who dealt with him. The high school he attended in St. Marys, W.Va., hired a professor from Marietta College to tutor him in Greek and Latin after he completed all of his required high school courses.

Remembering information came so easily to him, he said, that even in law school he never took notes, instantly recalling anything he had read or heard. Even while running Baker & Hostetler, he rarely took notes. And though law school was tough, he completed it while working full-time as a rate scheduler for a trucking company.

"Intellect alone will not get you anywhere," he said. "Hard work is what leads to a good living." During his career, he said he routinely worked seven days a week, often late into the evening.

He had moved to Cleveland in 1945, accepting Joe Hostetler's offer of $125 a month -- a sum he would later earn in less than 30 minutes -- becoming the 23rd lawyer hired by the firm. He quickly rose through the ranks, serving as the law firm's managing partner from 1969 to 1975 and from 1978 to 1985.

During his leadership, the firm expanded from one office with about 70 attorneys to five offices with over 200 attorneys. Baker Hostetler now has operations in 10 cities and more than 600 attorneys.

Drinko practiced corporate and business law and as senior adviser to the firm's policy committee continued to provide counsel to a number of major clients.

"John really had the vision to see the firm as not just a local Cleveland firm but a firm that could become national," said R. Steven Kestner, Baker Hostetler's executive partner.

Kestner said he lunched monthly with Drinko and found him always willing to listen and help in any way he could.

"He was a mentor to all of us," Kestner said.

Memorial service planned

In addition to his wife of 61 years, Drinko is survived by sons John Randall, president of the family-owned Cleveland Institute of Electronics, and J. "Deaver," who operates the family's Double D. Ranch; two daughters, Dr. Diana Lynn Drinko, a pediatrician in Farmington, N.M., and Elizabeth Lee Sullivan, a museum docent in Tucson, Ariz; 11 grandchildren; and two great-grandchildren.

Kestner said a memorial service for Drinko probably will be held in Cleveland, but plans were not finalized.

The family said that contributions in Drinko's memory could be made to Marshall University Foundation Inc., 1 John Marshall Drive, Huntington, WV 25755, or The Ohio State University Moritz College of Law, 220 Drinko Hall, 55 West Twelfth Avenue, Columbus 43210.

Mr. Drinko served as a director on their boards, and the boards of several other corporations. He was also a trustee of six foundations, including The Ohio State University Foundation and the Marshall University Foundation. Even in his 80's, Mr. Drinko remained active at the firm. "John and I would have lunch together once a month when he was in town. We would talk about firm issues, business issues, client issues—and John always had a helpful insight or comment," said Steven Kestner, current Executive Partner of the firm.

In addition to leading Baker Hostetler into the era of the national law firm, Mr. Drinko was also instrumental in breaking down barriers to opportunity that historically had existed at large corporate law firms. Under his leadership, Baker Hostetler hired the first Jewish partner and the first African American partner at a major Cleveland law firm.

Mr. Drinko compiled an enviable record of civic commitment. He and foundations that he funded or controlled endowed 15 faculty chairs at various colleges and universities, including one at Marshall University, from which he graduated in 1942, and two at the Ohio State Law School, from which he graduated in 1944. He also was awarded ten honorary degrees from various colleges and universities. The law school classroom building at Ohio State is named in honor of him, as is the library at Marshall University. Mr. Drinko was also a major contributor to the Cleveland Museum of Art, the United Way, the Cleveland Orchestra, and the Cleveland Institute of Music. Drinko Recital Hall at Cleveland State University was named in his honor in recognition of his support of the musical arts.

For all his professional success, Mr. Drinko never forgot his roots, and the difficult time he had growing up in depression-era West Virginia. His efforts to encourage and fund education were the outgrowth of his life-long commitment to helping others with ambition to have an opportunity to succeed.

Mr. Drinko is survived by his wife, Elizabeth, to whom he was married for over 60 years; four children, John Randall, president of the family-owned Cleveland Institute of Electronics, J. Deaver, who operates the family's Double D Ranch in Coshocton, Ohio, Diana Lynn Drinko, a pediatrician in Farmington, N.M., and Mrs. Elizabeth Lee Sullivan, a museum docent in Tucson, Ariz.; eleven grandchildren; and two great grandchildren.

Mr. Drinko was a member of the American, Ohio and Cleveland Bar Associations, The Union Club, The Mayfield Country Club, and a long-standing member of Heights Presbyterian Church. He was also very proud of his service as a 33rd Degree Scottish Rite Mason. Mr. Drinko was a long-time resident of Lyndhurst, Ohio, but typically spent the winter in Palm Springs, California.

Funeral services will be private. A memorial service will be held on Saturday, March 29, 2008, at 2:00 p.m. at The Church of the Covenant located on the campus of Case Western Reserve University in Cleveland. The family suggest contributions for those who wish to the Marshall University Foundation, Inc., 1 John Marshall Dr., Huntington, W. Va. 25755, or The Ohio State University Michael E. Moritz College of Law, 220 Drinko Hall, 55 West Twelfth Ave., Columbus, Ohio 43210.

John Drinko, great Marshall University patron, dead at 86

Herald-Dispatch.com

HUNTINGTON — John D. Drinko, one of Marshall University's greatest benefactors and most well-known graduates, died Jan. 30 in Palm Springs, Calif., according to a press release from the Baker Hostetler law firm. He was 86.

The Marshall library is named for Drinko.

"The hearts of the entire Marshall University community are filled with sadness as we mourn the passing of Dr. John Deaver Drinko," said Marshall University President Stephen J. Kopp in a statement released by the university. "He was a man of extraordinary intellect, generosity and distinction. A fascinating story-teller, his humble beginnings in rural West Virginia amid impoverished circumstances taught him lessons that forever shaped and inspired his life and career. Dr. Drinko was truly a giant among men renowned for his brilliance, principle and resolve. His life accomplishments rank him among the greatest alumni of Marshall University.

"Dr. Drinko and his lovely wife, Libby (Elizabeth Gibson Drinko), shared a love of Marshall University. They also shared a mutual belief in the power of higher education to change lives and reveal unseen futures for young people. Their generosity involving virtually all areas of the University have touched countless lives and provided untold opportunities for many members of the Marshall University family. Dr. John Deaver Drinko will be forever remembered as a 'Son of Marshall.'"

Drinko and his wife, Elizabeth Gibson Drinko, were among the leading supporters of Marshall University.

"His presence is felt all over the institution," Alan Gould, the executive director of the Drinko Academy for American Political Institutions and Civic Culture at Marshall, said in 2005. "If John is going to be around it, it's going to be good."

Drinko, a native of St. Marys, W.Va., was forced by the Great Depression to start working at a young age. According to "John Deaver Drinko: A Man of Many Parts," Drinko supplied the main source of income for his family when he was nine years old.

By the time he was 12, he was driving trucks, mining coal, and had even wrestled bears at fairs.

"The most wonderful part of your life is when you don't have a thing," Drinko said in the book. "What do you have to lose?"

Drinko not only worked to support his family, but was also mainly self-educated. He taught himself how to speed-read and learned both Latin and Greek. This education would carry him through years of higher education, and laid the foundation for much of his charity work.

However, it was not his grades, but his athletic ability that landed him on scholarship at Marshall College, playing football and basketball for Cam Henderson. While active in sports, he remained supportive of his family, working at a local grocery store and sending the money back to his mother.

He graduated with highest honors from Marshall in 1942, and earned scholarships to Harvard and Duke, but turned them down, instead choosing a school closer to home, as he still supported his family. He enrolled in The Ohio State University College of Law, which has since been named in his honor.

After some postgraduate work at the University of Texas School of Law, Drinko moved to Cleveland, Ohio, and was hired by Baker, Hostetler and Patterson, one of the first lawyers in the firm to have a law degree from a public institution. He earned $125 a month.

"Intellect alone will not get you anywhere," Drinko is quoted as saying in "John Deaver Drinko: A Man of Many Parts." "Hard work is what leads to a good living."

The law firm began to grow, and at the firm's 75th anniversary in 1991, Drinko was called the driving force behind the firm's growth, which had become one of the largest firms in the nation.

Drinko was what many people called "a people person." According to Gould, Drinko typically walks up to a complete stranger, extends his hand and says, "Hi, I'm John Drinko. Who are you and what do you do?"

His personality is greatly remembered, but more importantly, he remembered those he met.

After the 1970 plane crash, Drinko chartered a plane, flew to Huntington, and raised more than $450,000 in contributions. Upon returning to Cleveland, he wrote a personal check for an undisclosed amount, and many people believe he is behind several anonymous contributions the school received in the months following the crash.

One of the most significant contributions was in 1985, when the Drinkos established the university's first $1 million chair in the College of Liberal Arts. That donation grew into one of Marshall's most significant academic programs, The Drinko Academy for American Political Institution and Civic Culture, which was established in 1994.

As part of the Drinko Academy, there is an annual Drinko Symposium, which provides an opportunity for Drinko Fellows, members of Marshall's faculty who are selected to perform specific research, to present the results of their research to Marshall faculty and students.

Also a part of the symposium is The Elizabeth Gibson Drinko Honors Convocation. Drinko was a trustee of six foundations, including The Ohio State University Foundation and the Marshall University Foundation.

In addition to his university support, Drinko was a nationally known lawyer who helped the firm Baker Hostetler rise to prominence. Under his leadership, Baker Hostetler hired the first Jewish partner and the first African American partner at a major Cleveland law firm, according to a release from the firm.

Drinko is survived by his wife, Elizabeth, to whom he was married for over 60 years; four children, John Randall, president of the family-owned Cleveland Institute of Electronics, J. Deaver, who operates the family's Double D Ranch in Coshocton, Diana Lynn Drinko, a pediatrician in Farmington, N. M., and Mrs. Elizabeth Lee Sullivan, a museum docent in Tucson, Az.; eleven grandchildren; and two great grandchildren.

Funeral services will be private. There will be a memorial service in Cleveland later in the year. The family suggest contributions for those who wish to the Marshall University Foundation, Inc., 1 John Marshall Dr., Huntington, WV 25755, or The Ohio State University Michael E. Moritz College of Law, 220 Drinko Hall, 55 West Twelfth Ave., Columbus, OH 43210.

John ("Jack") Franklin Johnson was born on March 16, 1924 in Avalon, Pennsylvania, the son of John Franklin and Mary (nee Woodburn) Johnson. He was called to Christ in the sacrament of Holy Baptism on January 28, 1925 in the Avalon Presbyterian Church. His father died by suicide when Jack was only three years old, and he was raised by his hard working and loving mother.

Jack's first job was at Bard's Dairy Mart, on Lincoln Avenue in Bellvue, Pennsylvania. Jack graduated from Avalon High School in June 1941, where he was President of the Hi-Y Club, a cheerleader and on the track team, placing first in the WPIAL and second in the State in cross country in 1941. After graduating from high school, Jack enrolled in Penn State University on a $100 cross country scholarship to study hotel and restaurant management.

In September 1943, however, he was drafted into the U.S. Army, where he learned for the first time that his given name was "John". He did his basic training at Camp Lee, Virginia. He entered the Army Specialized Training Program and was assigned to Georgetown University and Randolph Macon College. The program was soon disbanded and he was assigned to the 95th Infantry Division at Indiantown Gap, Pennsylvania. On August 9, 1944, the 95th was shipped overseas, arriving in France 100 days after D-day. The Division was active in campaigns in Northern France, the Rhineland and Central Europe, becoming known as the "Iron Men of Metz." He was in the Quartermasters Corp, serving as a cook. He returned to the United States in July 1945 and was honorably discharged from the Army on December 7, 1945 at Camp Shelby, Mississippi.

In September 1946, John enrolled in the University of Denver's first class in the School of Hotel and Restaurant Management. After his first year there, he married Audrey Dorathea Fogarty from Brentwood, Pennsylvania on June 14, 1947. He graduated from the University of Denver in March 1949 with a Bachelor of Science degree. He then enrolled in the University of Chicago, from which he received a Masters degree in Business in 1950. He started his professional career as the Assistant Manager of South Hills Country Club. In 1952, he became the Wine Steward and Director of Sales at the William Penn Hotel in Pittsburgh. He and Audrey and their son John moved to East Bruceton Road in Pleasant Hills, Pennsylvania in 1952. Son Donald was born in 1953. John left the William Penn in 1961 when it became clear that he would be required to leave Pittsburgh in order to advance in the organization. He was Director of Convention Sales for the Pittsburgh Convention Bureau from 1961 to 1964. He and his family, which now included son Stephen and nephew Michael Thomas, moved to 308 Tangelo Drive in Gill Hall, Jefferson Borough, Pennsylvania in 1963, where he lived for the next 44 years.

From 1964 to 1992 he was Project Supervisor in the Meetings and Conferences Group for the United States Steel Corporation. He was also the Convention Manager for the International Iron and Steel Institute from about 1975 to 1994. In these jobs, he traveled all over the United States and the world. John (or J2, as he was known throughout U.S. Steel) was hard-working and known for his enthusiasm, organization and creativity. At home, John was friends with all the kids in the neighborhood, including several mentally handicapped children to whom he gave considerable time and loving and patient attention.

Throughout his life, John was intellectually curious, with particular interests in the Civil War and Lutheran theology. Even at age 85, he was always active, saying "I was never bored a day in my life", and he is enthusiastic in everything he did, believing that "Attitude is more important than skills." When asked how he is doing, his standard reply was "Outstanding!" After his retirement, he ran in numerous 5-K races, winning numerous trophies in his age group. John was a semi-talented wood-worker, turning out and giving away thousands of wood crafts over the years, before retiring from this hobby in 2009.

John was a faithful Christian who, especially after his retirement, devoted much time to Good Shepherd Lutheran Church, Whitehall, Pennsylvania (where he was a member (charter) for over 40 years), serving in numerous capacities, from Sunday School lecturer to fill-in janitor.

John D. HOUSTON II and Margaret "Peggy" FERRY were married. Margaret "Peggy" FERRY died on July 4, 2012 in Pittsburgh, Allegheny Co., Pennsylvania. The following obituary was published in Pittsburgh Post-Gazette from July 7 to July 9, 2012:

HOUSTON, MARGARET FERRY

On Wednesday, July 4, 2012, Margaret Ferry "Peggy" Houston died from complications related to metastatic breast cancer. She was 70 years old.

Beloved wife of John D. Houston, II; mother of John D. Houston, III (Jennifer A. Houston) and Sally Houston McCrady (William D. McCrady, Jr.); sister of Gardner Ferry (Nancy Ferry); grandmother of Abby and Emma Houston, Liam and Henry McCrady.

Peggy was born in White Plains, NY, and attended Mount Holyoke College. She met John Houston at a wedding of a mutual friend in June of 1963, and they married within the year. They moved to Pittsburgh in 1966.

After having two children, Peggy decided that she would like to become a lawyer and start a second career, which in 1978 was a novel idea for a mother with young children. She entered law school at the University of Pittsburgh at the age of 37. Peggy graduated Cum Laude and had a successful 25-year career as a civil litigation attorney at the law firm of Houston, Harbaugh.

Peggy fought an epic 15-year battle with breast cancer. What her family will remember most is her overwhelming desire to continue fighting so that she could do the things she most enjoyed, which included traveling, cooking, gardening and spending time with family and great friends. She was also a voracious reader, often reading a book a day. In recent years, her greatest joy has been her four young grandchildren, with whom she tried to spend as much time as possible.

Friends will be received on Monday from 2-4 and 5:30-7:30 p.m. at JOHN A. FREYVOGEL SONS, INC. , (www.freyvogelfuneralhome.com) 4900 Centre Avenue at Devonshire Street. In lieu of flowers, remembrances may be made to Neighborhood Academy, 409 North Aiken Avenue, Pgh., PA 15206 or Mount Holyoke College, 50 College Street, South Hadley, MA 01075 get so “into the show” that I did not remember performing. I had, and still have, no recollection of being onstage. The shows were all videotaped, and when we watched the tapes I was amazed at how good I was at improvising. Yet, I still had no memory of being that guy on the video. If you knew THEN what you know NOW, what would you have done differently? Not been so quiet

People would be surprised to know that I.....have a brown belt in Karate (earned several years ago).

Was there a teacher who you feel had a great influence on you, either while in

Charleston student earns $100,000 scholarship
Leonna Heuring, Standard Democrat

CHARLESTON, Mo. -- When Charleston High School senior William "Wilson" McNeary IV applied for a $100,000-national scholarship earlier this year, he was hopeful to at least become a finalist in the program. On May 4 in Long Beach, Calif., McNeary was named a winner of the Proton Energy Scholarship, which recognizes and awards high school seniors who demonstrate outstanding achievement, excellence and promise in the fields of science and technology and plan to pursue higher education in these areas. As a winner, William received a four-year undergraduate scholarship prize of $100,000. He was one of 10 finalists chosen out of 550 applicants nationwide. The scholarship is sponsored by global hydrogen leader Proton Energy Systems, which is owned by [Tom] Sullivan, and administered by the Hydrogen Education Foundation. A member of the marching and jazz bands, McNeary is also a member of the Student Council, Environmental Key Club and Future Teachers of America. He organized a collection of blankets for Hearts for Africa, an organization that gives supplies to orphaned, homeless children in Africa. McNeary, who is the son of William and Charlotte McNeary of Charleston, said his experience at the three-day conference was incredible. McNeary plans to attend the University of Missouri in Columbia this fall and wants to help America to eventually become energy dependent.
